Mphasis (BSE: 526299; NSE: MPHASIS), a leading IT services and solutions provider specializing in cloud and cognitive services, today announced its membership in the Hewlett Packard Enterprise (HPE)-driven Cloud28+, a cloud computing community and digital platform. Cloud28+ provides an online platform for Mphasis' specific solutions and services in the cloud market place.

Together with HPE, Mphasis is further strengthening its hybrid capabilities being deployed across cloud environments. Powered by Mphasis' X2C²™ formula, an industry-specific framework designed to transform enterprises by harnessing the power of cognitive technologies and rich data resident in enterprises, the Cloud28+ collaboration will benefit customers through:

- Access to an extensive cloud services catalog, containing thousands of Infrastructure-as-a-Service, Platform-as-a-Service, and Software-as-a-Service offerings, as well as professional services, cloud software, and deployable apps
- A go-to-market accelerator, allowing new go-to-market opportunities and return on investment for digital products and services
- A custom service aggregator that federates offerings and partners linked to customer's industry or specific use cases

"Mphasis is thrilled to join Cloud28+'s trusted community to accelerate our X2C²™ framework that combines a unique formula of integrated cloud and cognitive technologies, providing agile digital innovation for our customers. This partnership enables a collaborative approach as we can showcase our deep domain expertise through our hyperpersonalized services and offerings," said Elango R, President – HPE Business Unit at Mphasis. "By leveraging Cloud28+'s unique online platform, we're able to establish new partnerships and build customer relations."

Mphasis has published its solutions/products in Cloud28+'s online community global service database:

- DeepInsights
- InfraGenie
- ComPASS

"Central to Cloud28+ is our focus on enabling learning and connections between customers and partners," said Xavier Poisson Gouyou Beauchamps, Vice President, Cloud28+ and Service Providers Worldwide, HPE. "Having Mphasis' cloud and cognitive offerings, as well as their active participation in the community, will only enhance our ecosystem and ability to help people easily find the right, trusted solutions to match their business needs."
